Where Lies The Land
Where lies the land to which the ship would go?
Far, far ahead, is all her seamen know.
And where the land she travels from Away.
Far, far behind, is all that they can say.

On sunny noons upon the ship's smooth face
Linked arm in arm, how pleasant here to pace,
Or, o'er the tern reeling watch below
The foaming wake for widening as we go.

On the stormy nights when wild north-westerners rave,
How proud a thing to fight with wind and wave!
The dripping sailor on the reeling mast
Exults to hear, and scorns to wish it past.

Where lies the land to which the ship would go?
Far, far ahead, is all her seamen know.
And where the land she travels from? Away.
Far, far behind, is all that they can say.

Apples—Pie, Sauce, Baked and Fried

Do you really know apples? They are one of the fruits that every member of the family from baby to grandmother can eat and enjoy. Baked or steamed apples are one of the first foods a baby eats. Of course, the pulp is rubbed through a sieve but the valuable minerals are all there.

Baked apples with cereal for breakfast, apple fritters for luncheon and blushing apples with whipped cream for dessert can be relied on to touch the spot.

Sweet apples are delicious baked. Large "fair" apples should be baked with the skins on for breakfast. If wanted for a dessert they can be pared then cut in halves and cored.

Plain Baked Apples

Wash apples carefully and examine thoroughly. Put in a well buttered shallow pan and bake an hour and a half in a slow oven. Serve with sugar and cream for breakfast.

Baked Apples

Four apples, 4 teaspoons butter, 5 teaspoons sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-1 cup water.

Pare apples and remove cores with apple corer or cut in halves and remove cores. Put in a baking dish, put butter, sugar and cinnamon in cavity, pour over water and bake an hour in a moderate oven. The cinnamon is optional. Serve with sugar and cream.

Apple Pie

One cup flour, 2 tablespoons lard, 1-2 teaspoon salt, cold water, 3-4 cup sugar, 2 teaspoons cornstarch, apples. Tart apples are best for pie. They cook quickly.

Mix and sift flour and salt. Work in lard with tips of fingers. Add cold water, a little at a time, mixing lightly with fingers. It will take about 2 tablespoons of water for 1 cup of flour.

Divide dough into two equal parts. Roll one-half on a floured rolling board. Turn often to keep round and roll about one-fourth inch thick. Line pie pan and roll out top crust. Cut a few gashes through center and fold double. Mix sugar and cornstarch.

Pare, quarter and core apples and drop in prepared sugar. Be sure each piece of apple is well covered. Fill pie shell with apples, dampen edge with cold water and fit top crust in place. Run the rolling pin around the edge to press firmly. Trim and "crisp" edge and put in a hot oven. When crust begins to color, reduce heat and bake till apples are tender. These proportions are for an eight-inch pie pan.

Apple Sauce

Pare, quarter and core apples. Carefully cut out any blemished spots as these will not cook tender. Drop apples into cold water as they discolor quickly. Drain from water and put into a smooth sauce pan. Add boiling water to half cover.

Cover sauce pan and boil rapidly until tender. Put sugar in bowl and pour over boiling sauce. Stir until sugar is dissolved.

If apples are carefully pared the sauce need not be run through a colander. The amount of sugar varies with the tartness of the apples, but 1 cup of sugar will sweeten sauce for four. Sugar added after the apples are cooked keeps the delicate flavor of the apples.

Fried Apples

Six apples, 2 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons sugar. Wash apples, but do not pare. Quarter and core and cut in slices. Melt butter in frying pan, add apples, sprinkle with sugar and cover. Cook slowly until tender but not broken. This will depend somewhat on the variety of apple as some cook to pieces as soon as tender. Remove cover and brown slightly. This dish will take the place of an extra vegetable.

BEAUTY EXERCISES

The sleeveless costume has evidently come to stay for a while, so we may as well prepare for it. We can no longer conceal a too pudgy arm under flattering draperies or non-committal long sleeves. They must be reduced—or developed as the case may be—and beautiful if we wish them to be attractive with the fashionable frocks.

It is difficult to reduce the arm perceptibly without reducing the weight considerably, but there are several effective exercises that reduce the shoulders and keep little pads of fat from appearing beneath the arm.

One way is to stand erect with the arms outstretched at right angles with the body. Then raise the arms upward, pulling upon them as though you had a heavy weight on each arm. Another one that is very reducing is to throw the arms straight out in front of you and describe circles with them, first to the right and then to the left.

Svelte Exercise

The best all-around exercise I know for shoulders, arm and waist muscles is the svelte exercise—you remember how the farmer cuts his tall grass with swinging strokes?

Of course, you haven't a svelte, but you can get a broomstick, I'm sure. Grasp it with each hand about a foot apart, dividing the space of the stick into thirds. With the feet well apart, start with the stick high on the left side, swoop down just escaping the floor with the broomstick and come up high on the right side.

You won't care to do this many times the first day if you do it with the force you should. But increase the number from time to time. Besides beautifying your shoulders and upper arms, you are squeezing your liver in a way that is beneficial for that organ and will keep it functioning as it should.

At Housework

And when you are using the broomstick in its other position—in the course of your housework—try to put rhythm and grace into your strokes and make a beauty exercise out of a necessary task.

Of course, swimming, tennis, golf and practically all outdoor sports develop the muscles of your arms. But remember that the arms should be developed or reduced with the idea of beauty and grace rather than of muscle.

For training the arms to be graceful, nothing is more effective than the arm technique taught in the study of the ballet.

Billows of Lace Mark the High Tide of Fashion

SKETCH BY HARRIS

Lace is to the costumes of the summer as white-caps are to the sea. And the effect is just as lovely. Over a foundation of much belated under things, one dons a dress of washable silk trimmed with Irish crochet for summer mornings. The afternoon is very apt to find one in a lingerie dress frosty with lace and the early evening in a charming, deshabille like the one in the picture, studded with lace medallions in a most original manner.

The asymmetrical style is still very fashionable, making it a simple matter to put one's modest side to the front. The draper, may be easily managed at home with a little self-confidence and a few pins, as it is merely a straight piece, caught underneath on the right side, drawn under the left arm and over the right where it is allowed to form the sleeve. The material is caught again in three folds at the left side. The sheer beauty of the apricot Crepe de Chine makes further complications of design unnecessary. Insertion of the same motif as the medallions forms the neck and falls in a fringed band in the back.

Footwear hints for bonheur wear have just been relayed from Paris by Henri Creange, the fashion authority. Mules, of course, but of tissues richly embroidered and trimmed with beads. They are often like the old Dutch patterns in shape.
